

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to thrombospondin fragments found in plasma, their use or use 5 of portions thereof in diagnostic methods, as method calibrators, method indicators, and as immunogens, and as analytes for methods with substantial clinical utility; and their detection in plasma or other bodily fluids for purpose of diagnostic methods, especially for cancer.

10

15

20